

TRINIDAD GENERAL INFORMATION

Base:

Trinidad

The third town was founded by Diego Velázquez, in 1515 with the name of Villa de la Santísima Trinidad, and is situated among the hills of Sierra de l'Escambray and the Caribbean Sea. Declared UNESCO World Heritage, it is the most colonial town in Cuba and continues to have the characteristics of that period. Its luxury houses reflects its history and traditions and constitute true examples of baroque style in America.

Trinidad is still the best preserved colonial town of the isle and has slowly become one of the most important touristic places of the country. It is necessary to take some time to visit the town, the time to get lost in the small streets and admire the tiny pastel colour houses, the paved paths around Plaza Mayor, surrounded by superb colonial buildings. The majority of these buildings, already renovated, has now turned into museums. Among the constructions we can cite : Santa Ana church, Brunet Palace, Sanchez Iznaga Palace and the parish Most Holy Trinity church.

San Luis valley or the valley of Sugar Windmills, also UNESCO World Heritage, is not far and easy to reach from from the town.
